Wuyi University

Wuyi University is a comprehensive public university established by the People's Government of Guangdong Province in 1985, mainly focusing on engineering. It is currently a doctoral degree authorization construction unit and a university for the construction of high-level science and engineering universities in Guangdong Province. The university is located in Jiangmen City of Guangdong Province, an important node city in the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao Greater Bay Area and known as “the foremost Overseas Chinese Hometown in China.” It has more than 22,000 registered students, including over 18,000 full-time undergraduates and more than 1,400 master's degree students. The university offers 78 undergraduate programs covering 7 academic disciplines, including economics, management, law, literature, science, engineering, and art. WYU boasts 21 first-class undergraduate programs on the national or provincial level, and 10 provincial key disciplines. It has 7 first-level disciplines and 7 professional master's programs to confer master's degree. The disciplines of chemistry, materials science and engineering have entered the top 1% of the global ESI subject rankings.

中国—太平洋岛国防灾减灾合作中心是外交部、应急管理部、自然资源部和广东省政府共同建设，中国—太平洋岛国在防灾减灾领域成立的第一个多边合作平台。合作中心设置在五邑大学。

为进一步加强与太平洋岛国在防灾减灾救灾领域的合作，携手应对各种自然灾害和风险挑战，共同守护好人民群众生命财产安全，我校面向太平洋岛国招收来华留学本科生，培养适合太平洋岛国发展需要的人才。

The China-Pacific Island Countries Center for Disaster Risk Reduction Cooperation, located at WYU, is a multilateral cooperation platform established by China and Pacific Island Countries (PICs) in the fields of disaster risk reduction and emergency management. It was jointly constructed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Ministry of Emergency Management, the Ministry of Natural Resources, and the Guangdong Provincial Government. In order to further strengthen cooperation with PICs in the fields of disaster risk reduction and emergency management, and to jointly safeguard the safety of people's lives and property against various natural disasters and risk challenges, WYU enrolls undergraduate students from PICs to study in China and cultivate talents for the future needs of PICs.
